THE 1957 MARYLAND

50-YARD LINE

For Press, Radio and TV

Maryland Welcomes the Queen!

At Maryland, 1957 will be the year we will remember as the one when we played a command performance before royalty.

We feel singularly honored that Queen Elizabeth of England and Prince Philip chose Maryland when they wanted to see a typically American sport, football.

We enjoyed the distinction of having the White House announce the great event.

Our own Governor Theodore R. McKeldin and University President Wilson H. Elkins had the high honor of being hosts to the royal party.

The citizens of our Free State can boast of historical kinship with our British cousins because Maryland was settled by the English.

On the field of sport itself the record bespeaks the common interests of Maryland fans and the visiting royalty.

No school in the United States has achieved national recognition in athletics as quickly as did Maryland in the last decade.

No British monarch in history has matched the high interest in sports displayed by the Queen and her husband.

Queen Elizabeth has knighted two sports figures, jockey Sir Gordon Richards and cricket great Sir Jack Hobbs. She has decorated more athletes from the British Commonwealth of Nations than any previous monarch.

Her Majesty, like Queen Mother Elizabeth, maintains a racing stable. Her horse, Countryman, won a gold medal in the 1956 Olympics. Queen Elizabeth II rides and likes swimming and salmon fishing.

Prince Philip prefers polo, yachting and cricket as a participant and is keen on soccer (English football) and rugby as a spectator.

It was fortunate indeed that Her Majesty was visiting our country at the exact time that our Terrapins happened to be scheduled against their arch rival, North Carolina.

The coincidence made it possible for North Carolina coach Jim Tatum to share in Maryland's good fortune. After all, it was under Tatum that Maryland attained big-time stature before bequeathing the responsibility to our own coach, Tommy Mont.

Long live the Queen.

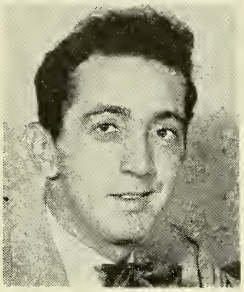
FOR PRESS, RADIO and TELEVISION



This is your 1957 Maryland football brochure, "The 50-Yard Line." It is published in hope that it offers you helpful information for your coverage of Terp games this season. With this book goes an invitation to you to visit us as often as possible in our offices in Cole Field House. In return, I will try to visit you as often as I can and extend every assistance possible. For any information, you can reach me day and night at UNion 4-4076. When it is real late at night, I can be contacted at WArfield 7-3800, Extension 507.

Applications for tickets should be made the first part of the week of the game to allow time for mailing. Wire and telephone requirements should be made through your local Western Union office.

Every effort will be made to furnish all the services in the press box available, so that your accounts of the game can be most adequate for your readers. Statistics, both half-time and final figures; a quarter play-by-play; game leaders in all departments; substitutions, etc. will be ready a few minutes after the game.

Many thanks for all your cooperation and favors of the past.

DR. WILSON H. ELKINS

PRESIDENT, UNIVERSITY OF MARYLAND

Since his appointment as President of the University of Maryland three years ago, Dr. Wilson H. Elkins has worked tirelessly to make the University more and more renowned. The College Park undergraduate campus as well as the Professional Schools' campus in Baltimore are growing in leaps and bounds. And the tremendous Overseas Educational Program is continuing its great expansion to the far corners of the world. Thus progress is being made toward attaining the early goals set by the young President to make the University known the world over, just as he is known as one of the nation's top educators and administrators.

Presidency of a large school is not an unfamiliar role to Dr. Elkins. He came to Maryland from Texas Western College, El Paso, Texas, where he headed that institution's program.

Dr. Elkins was born in Median, Texas, July 9, 1908. With his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Elkins, he moved to San Antonio at an early age.

After completing his grade and high school education in San Antonio, Dr. Elkins attended Schreiner Institute from 1926 to the spring of 1928 when he entered the University of Texas. From Texas University in 1932, he received both the Bachelor of Arts and Master of Arts Degrees.

Receiving a Rhodes Scholarship, Dr. Elkins attended Oxford University from 1933 to 1936, receiving degrees of Bachelor of Letters and Doctor of Philosophy.

Combining outstanding academic and athletic abilities during his student days at the University of Texas, he was elected to membership in Phi Beta Kappa and earned eight varsity letters in football, basketball, and track. In his final year at Texas, he captained the basketball team and was elected president of the student association.

Dr. Elkins lettered in football on the 1929, 1930, and 1931 teams at Texas and was the regular quarterback in his final two seasons, the one in 1930 winning the Southwest Conference title. That team ranks among Texas' all-time best. A soph end with that team was Edwin B. Price, former head coach at Texas.

He lettered on the 1930, '31, and '32 basketball teams. He was captain his senior year and also the squad's leading scorer. He lettered in track in 1931 and '32 as a sprinter and broad jumper. He was a member of the national championship football shuttle relay team at the Drake Relays in 1931.

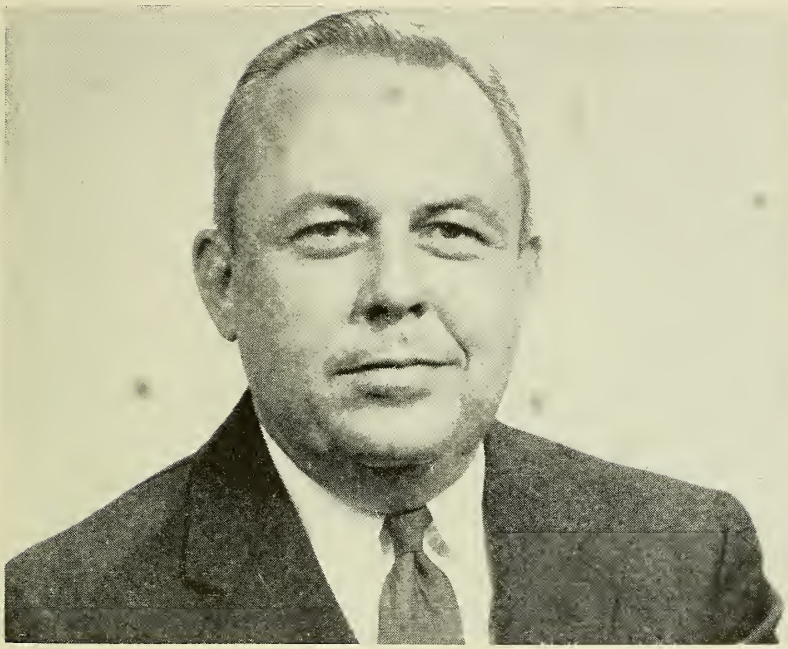
Dr. Elkins married Dorothy Blackburn of Berclair, Texas, in 1927. They have two daughters, Carole Ann and Margaret Elise.

His career as an educator began in 1932 when he was named athletic director of Cisco High School. In 1936, Dr. Elkins joined the faculty of the University of Texas as an instructor in history. He held this position until 1938 when he went to San Angelo as president of the Junior College.

He remained there until January, 1949, when he was chosen president of Texas Western College. This position he held until his appointment as the President of the University of Maryland.

Dr. Elkins is a member of numerous learned societies including the Texas State Teacher's Association, National Educational Association, Phi Beta Kappa, Alpha Gamma, and is listed in Who's Who in American Education. He is a member of Sigma Nu fraternity.

Dr. Elkins is a member of the Methodist Church and the Rotary Club. He is a constant contributor to national education periodicals.



WILLIAM W. COBEY

DIRECTOR OF ATHLETICS

In his first year heading the athletic program at the University that he was so instrumental in building prior to his appointment, Bill Cobey saw gratifying results as Terp athletic teams took six championships and were runnersup in two others among the twelve recognized teams of the Atlantic Coast Conference.

Cobey was named to succeed Jim Tatum as Athletic Director following the latter's resignation and the likeable Maryland graduate took charge like the veteran that he is.

He had been the man behind the scenes as Graduate Manager of Athletics since 1948. He was Tatum's top man and efficiently handled the big job of top administrator along with the tremendous task of arranging all other teams' schedules as well as all the many details that accompany the assignment of directing the vast Maryland athletic program. He now, as Director of Athletics, continues to carry out these duties as always along with heading the Ticket Office.

The program as outlined by Cobey is a most successful one and the popular favorite son is certain to carry on its well respected athletic program.

The Cobey name is not new, even to old-time University graduates. Bill's father, W. W. Cobey, was a 1901 graduate and a letterman in track and manager of the baseball team. He became a famous agricultural scientist and while in Florida, he was one of the pioneers in the discovery of leaf tobacco. Cobey also had two uncles graduate from the University.

Bill, as he is known to the many friends he has made around home and throughout the athletic fraternity, came to Maryland in the fall of 1926 following graduation from Fort Meyer, Fla. High School. Born and raised in Quincy, still his native home, Cobey attended Quincy through eleventh grade before the family moved to Fort Meyer.

After playing freshman lacrosse, Cobey had to cast aside any athletic team participation in order that he might get a job to help him through school. This employment was in the Cashier's office where he worked until his graduation in 1930. He belonged to the Kappa Alpha Fraternity while an undergraduate.

Following graduation, he returned to Quincy, Fla., and worked with his uncle on a truck farm. He returned to the University to accept the job as Cashier of the University. It was this job he held for 17 years, until 1948 when he accepted the position as Graduate Manager of Athletics. Then came the appointment as Director of Athletics, February 1, 1956.

Cobey is active in community affairs, having been a past president of University Park PTA; councilman for University Park two years, first president of the University branch of the Maryland Classified Employee's Assn.; and is active in the affairs of Northwestern High School.

Cobey married the former Mary Gray Munroe, also of Quincy, Fla., in 1935. They have six children, three daughters and three sons. Their eldest daughter, Mary Patricia, is a senior at the University. William, a Northwestern High School graduate, is in the Army; Julia Ann is a Senior at Northwestern while Betty is in ninth grade of junior high. A son, Elwood is in sixth grade while the baby of the family, Munroe, is five and attends kindergarten school.

The Cobeys are members of the University Methodist Church, College Park.

TOMMY MONT

HEAD FOOTBALL COACH

It has been said, heard, and printed over and over again that the misfortunes that befell the first year coaching job of the Terps' Tommy Mont were unprecedented. Not only were they unprecedented as the 34-year old Maryland graduate was in his rookie year as a head coach, but numerous veteran observers believed that the injuries and other unexpected woes that hit Mont hadn't been experienced by any of the veterans who were speaking of their own long-time coaching careers.

Mont inherited one of the finest coaching jobs in the country last year and had another highly ranked eleven returning for what was expected to be another great record in Maryland football.

But lady luck went against the Terps and Mont and a 2-7-1 record was the result. First Uncle Sam took his all-American quarterback Frank Tamburello two days before the Syracuse opener, then yellow jaundice took his great halfback Howie Dare just one day before the opener and the season, and then a continuous loss of key players because of injuries became more prominent as the days and weeks went by. But Mont and his staff kept their poise and made a good showing even in losing. But this is another year, and as the hard-working affable Mont says, "It just can't happen two years in a row."

Mont is one of the all-time athletic names at the University. He has the rare distinction of being a three-sport athlete four years at Maryland, lettering in football, basketball, and lacrosse. A graduate of Cumberland's Allegany High School, he started his colllegiate athletic career in 1941. He was in school two years before entering the service in the spring of 1943. He played tailback in 1941, then quarterback on the '42 T eleven. It was then that he laid the groundwork to become a great football player, even in those lean war seasons. Also, both years he won his basketball and lacrosse monograms. He won all-America mention as well as first team all-Conference and the Washington-Maryland outstanding college player awards in 1942.

During the war, Mont served 42 months in the Army, 18 of which were spent in the ETO. He played ball throughout his long hitch in the service. He was tailback on the Fort Benning Post championship team of 1943. As quarterback and head coach, he led the 3rd Infantry team to the ETO title. He also was at the helm of the 7th Army all-Star team, of which Coach Peebles was a member.

Following his discharge, Mont returned to Maryland and was quarterback on the 1946 team as he gained all-American mention and all-Conference honors.

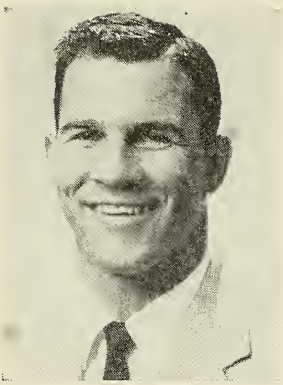
Drafted by the Washington Redskins, Mont had four brilliant years as quarterback. Then came the call from Tatum back to his alma mater as backfield coach.

During his stay at Maryland, he worked with the Maryland High Schools. For three summers he spent two weeks as an advisory coach at National Polytechnic Institute in Mexico City. He was responsible for arranging the "international game" between the Terp frosh and the Institute's team, won by the Terps, 26-13. He also put in the T formation for Scrappy Moore's University of Chattanooga eleven in 1949. In the summer of 1954, he also was asked to assist teaching the Split-T for the Parris Island service team. He also was a collegiate talent scout for the Los Angeles Rams, and sent his own product, Ronnie Waller, to the Rams, who was " '55 Rookie of the Year" by many picks.

Mont married the former Virginia Askins, Baltimore, and a Maryland student, in 1943. They have three sons, Steve 9, Jeffrey 7, and Danny 6.

ASSISTANT COACHES

BOB WARD



The great line play of Maryland football teams that has been prominent for nearly a decade can be attributed greatly to Bob Ward, the Terps' hard working line coach. Both as a player for four years and now as a Terp coach for the past five years, Ward has been instrumental in the reputation owned by Red and White linemen. One of Tommy Monts' "musts" when he was getting his staff together, Ward demonstrates his vast experience with knowledge and authority. The former two-year all-America guard is still considered the all-time great name in the history of modern Maryland football.

A veteran of the Army paratroopers, Ward came to Maryland in 1947 as one of the smallest guard prospects—180 pounds—ever seen by former coach Jim Tatum. But Tatum liked what he saw; consequently, Maryland's finest lineman.

Ward, from Elizebeth, N. J., graduated in 1952 with a degree from the School of Business and Public Administration, finishing in the upper one-third of his class. He majored in Real Estate and Insurance.

BILL "Whitey" DOVELL

Another Maryland graduate who turned down leaving his alma mater to stay on and coach under Tommy Mont. Dovell was another of the Terps who played under Jim Tatum then was retained by the Carolinian as an assistant coach.

Dovell, following his graduation with a Bachelor's Degree from the School of Physical Education in 1953, heeded Tatum's plea to stay on at his alma mater as a member of the coaching staff. The decision was a good one for Maryland football since "Whitey" coached three winning freshman teams and has been responsible for molding some of today's present stars. In 1955 his frosh eleven brought to Maryland the school's first undefeated freshman team. From this team the Terps have an outstanding nucleus for varsity teams. The big win was the "international" victory over Mexico Polytechnic Institute, 26-13, played across the border in Mexico City.

One of the most outstanding halfback prospects ever to come to Maryland, Layman, although an injury kept him from playing, was another of the Tatum tutored pupils who stayed with Mont after serving for several campaigns with the old regime. He brought his brother Bob to Maryland two years ago who now is one of the Terps' top backs. He had a great year last fall as a sophomore.

Layman's collegiate career was interrupted as the up-coming star sustained a serious injury on the last day of spring practice during his freshman year.

Following his recovery after six months hospitalization, he returned to school the fall of 1952 to complete his education. He received his Bachelor of Science Degree, 1954, from the School of Business and Public Administration, with a major in Transportation.

While completing work for his Degree, he assisted Dovell with the freshmen as backfield coach. Last season he worked with the varsity

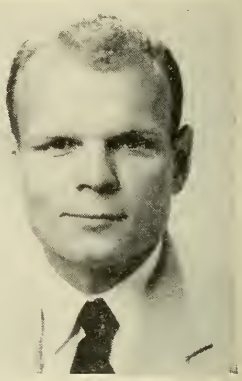
ED FULLERTON



When the all-time history of Maryland football is recorded, the name of Ed Fullerton will be one of the most prominent. His name will be high on the list as one of the most brilliant backs who contributed so greatly to the gridiron fortunes of his alma mater while starring on the football field, 1949-52.

This will be his second campaign as a Terp backfield coach having returned to College Park at the call of his former backfield coach and now head coach, Mont.

It was an indelible record the native of West View, Pa. made as a fullback and halfback his four years on the College Park campus.

The 26-year old Fullerton still is considered the top athlete to come out of West View High School in a tough Western Pennsylvania League. He lettered four years in football and basketball and two in baseball. He was selected Athlete of the Year his senior season and was named on the top WPIAL selections his junior and senior year.

The highly touted back came to Maryland in the fall of 1949. Lettered three years, playing his sophomore and senior year at fullback and his

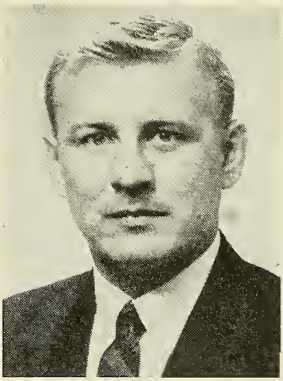
JOHNNY IDZIK



Another former star Maryland halfback who helped get the Terps started in their national climb, Idzik came back last fall at Mont's call to be a backfield aide for the Red and White. Besides his coaching chores last season, he, along with Dovell were the chief scouts.

Idzik came to Maryland in the fall of 1947 as one of Philadelphia's most publicized backs and during his four years of varsity competition for the Terps proved this reputation on the collegiate gridirons. At Northeast Catholic High in Philadelphia, the fine two-way back was an all-City and all-Catholic selection his senior year in both football and baseball. He was all-Catholic selection in football his junior year. He captained both squads his senior year. He played tailback and quarterback. He was named the outstanding athlete at Northeast his senior year and also was runnerup to Red Bagnell, later a star back at Penn, as the top football player in the city.

At Maryland, he starred all four years, both offense and defense, and his senior year found him one of the South's top defensive backs. He

JIM PEEBLES

The big likeable ex-Vanderbilt University and Washington Redskin star came to Maryland last fall as the Terps' end coach. Mont was most familiar with Peebles' ability and knowledge of end play for he saw him play while in the service and then later as teammates with the Redskins. They became friends while in Germany during World War II.

Along with his coaching duties, Peebles handles the academic guidance program of the Athletic Department for the football squad. Once he gets them registered, he follows their classroom progress daily with reports from the professors. This past year, not one member of the team was dropped from school because of academic failure.

A native of Columbia, Tenn., the 37-year old Peebles prepped at Columbia Military Academy and played football and basketball there four years. He was an all-State selection his senior year. Highly sought after by Southeastern schools, he cast his lot with Vanderbilt in the fall of 1938. He lettered his three varsity years at tackle and was selected to the all-Southeastern Sophomore eleven. He was alternate captain of the football team his senior year.

A characteristic of Maryland's great football teams has been the outstanding line play, featured by the excellent defensive achievement of these teams. One of those most responsible for the fabulous reputation of Terp linemen and Terp line play was Jack Hennemier.

The highly regarded and most respected native of Savannah, Ga., has returned to College Park at the beckon of his close friend Tommy Mont, to be a Terp assistant and of course to work with the line coaching chores.

Hennemier returns to Maryland after serving as head coach for a year and a half of the Calgary Stampeders, Canada. He had been line coach for former Terp coach Jim Tatum from 1949 through 1954 before he went North. It was during this period that Hennemier and Mont served together on the Terp staff; Mont as backfield coach and Hennemier as line coach. It was in this period that the Terp line received so much national recognition, not only for individuals, but for their units leading the nation in defensive statistics. And it was Mont's

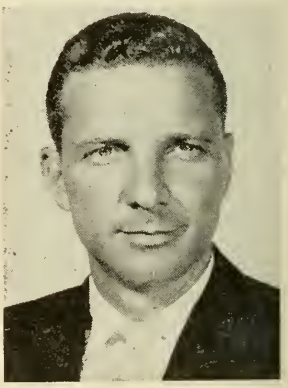
ROY LESTER



A graduate of the University of West Virginia, Lester, along with Peebles, were the only non-Maryland grads on Monts' staff last fall. The Mountaineer came to Maryland as freshman football and freshman basketball coach. Last winter marked the first full-time coach for freshman basketball. He guided a fine team to a 12-2 record.

The native of Spencer, W. Va., came to the University from Allegany High School in Cumberland, Md. where he had tremendous success as football and baseball coach for four years. He also assisted the basketball coach. He was a history professor at Allegany.

After graduation from Spencer where he was a 3-sport letterman he entered the University in the fall of 1941. Here he played basketball, baseball and football his first two years before he went into the Navy. During his stay in the States, he played all three sports at Great Lakes and Jacksonville. It was at the latter he played end under Missouri's Don Faurot

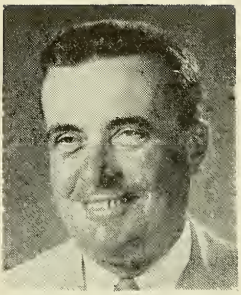
THE TRAINERS

ALFRED J. "Duke" WYRE



In the athletic training fraternity across the nation, Maryland's "Duke" is regarded as one of the best. The tremendously popular and respected Terp trainer has been a long-time pioneer among the reputable veterans of the training world.

Many honors have been afforded "Duke" and last year he was elected Chairman of the Board of Directors of the National Trainers' Association, a position he still holds.

Now ready for his eleventh year as head trainer at Maryland, Duke first arrived on the scene in 1947 when former head coach Jim Tatum was gathering top men for the nucleus of his organization. It was on his long and reputable experience and high recommendations that Tatum brought him in as a top trainer in the country.

He has authored many articles and manuals on training methods, and is always in demand to give lectures on athletic training methods at numerous clinics. He also has devised various equipment pieces that are used for athletic injuries and prevention of injuries.

"Dapper Duke" as he is known because of his natty dress habits, was trainer at Yale for 15 years before he moved to Holy Cross for another

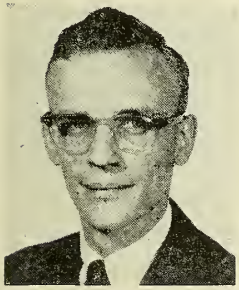
BILL "Spider" FRY



When head trainer Duke Wyre needed a new full-time assistant, he beckoned the services of his former student trainer, Bill 'Spider" Fry. "Spider," as he is and was known while in school, is a native of Norristown, Pa., and returned to his alma mater last spring.

Fry, a 1951 Maryland graduate, prepared at Elkton High School, Md., where he played and lettered for three years in soccer and basketball.

He entered the University in the fall of 1946 and assisted Wyre in the training room as a student trainer all four years. He graduated with a B.S. Degree from the School of Physical Education.

Following graduation, he went into the Air Force and was assigned to Jet Engine Training. During his four-year stay, he was stationed at Davis-Monthan Air Base in Tucson and Great Falls Air Base, Montana assigned to jet duty. He also was trainer for the base athletic teams. He was discharged June, '55.

Returning to Maryland, he entered Graduate School and continued his schooling until his appointment as assistant trainer.

THE 1957 TERPS

The Terps of Coach Tommy Mont completed their 20 days of spring drills in the seventh annual Varsity-Alumni game, a popular feature of the closing of spring practice at College Park. For the second consecutive year, the star-studded Alumni won in the extra-point department, 14-13. The grads had 13 former Terp all-Americans in their lineup and 26 who had played or are still playing for some professional football team.

Last spring, after the Varsity had performed so well against just such an Alumni team, Mont was most optimistic about his 1956 prospects. This was his first year as head coach of the Red and White. This is his second, and although he is not as optimistic, he is encouraged with the progress of his 1957 team.

Maryland's 1956 record was 2-7-1; most unexpected. Now as we head into his second season, we must remember that an unprecedented number of "bad breaks" hit the Maryland football camp. Expert veteran observers said it was unheard of in major collegiate football circles. Two days before the Syracuse opener, the Terps lost their all-America quarterback candidate, Frank Tamburello, to the service. Tambo had led the Terps to 15 consecutive victories over the '54 and '55 seasons. The day before the game, his top halfback, Howie Dare came down with the yellow jaundice and was lost for the season. With Tambo gone, Mont also was without his freshman star signal caller Dickie Lewis, the victim of an ankle injury September 15, the last day of intra-squad scrimmages. Lewis was unable to play until the seventh game. That left the quarterback job to John Fritsch, who had figured in only ten offensive plays as a soph. Mont moved halfback Bob Rusevlyan to quarterback to help out as well as working hard with Fred Petrella.

In the first game, his other fine running left halfback John McVicker received a knee injury and was out for the season. Quickly, during the season, 17 of the top 22 men who played so well during the spring and were counted on to be the Terrapin team of '56, missed from two games to seven and four were out for the season. In the backfield, Mont was unable to start the same foursome two games in a row. In fact, only regular Fred Hamilton started each game in the backfield. He played a minimum of 55 minutes in 6 of the 10 games. Injuries necessitated juggling the backs each week. Hamilton, the work-horse of the team the past two years, played fullback and halfback.

So, when Mont looks ahead to the 1957 season, although encouraged, he talks with "Tongue-in-cheek" as he recalls the unfortunate personnel losses of last year. "It can't happen to us two years in a row," he says.

Can Maryland come back and install itself as a football power again? Yes. The 1957 edition has fine personnel and certainly is a team that has experience at each position. Because of the number of boys who played last season that might not have if the injury plague had not hit the Terp camp, Mont has 29 returning lettermen. Two of these are lettermen from the '55 season, Dare and fullback Phil Perlo. Perlo returns after dropping out of school for a year because of illness. He definitely adds a big assist to the fullback position. Three other lettermen will not return: McVicker, guard Bill Komlo, and tackle Joe Lazzarino.

OPPONENTS' PROSPECTUS AS REPORTED BY THEIR PUBLICITY DIRECTORS

Texas A & M

By Jones Ramsey

Strength by Positions

LE—Bobby Marks, returning starter and 2-year letterman plus two sophomores in Byron Caruthers and Harold King who showed marked improvement in spring..

LT—Two returning lettermen including all-America Charles Krueger, returning starter and 2-year letterman. Also, Darrell Brown, letterman in 1954 and 1955 who was ineligible in 1956. Probable top sophs—Robert Garner and Ben Havard.

LG—Chief problem and weakness with loss of Dee Powell, 3-year regular. One letterman back in Tommy Howard who played sparingly behind Powell. Probable best sophs—Joe Munson, Al Taylor plus squadman Carl Luna.

C—Another problem. John Gilbert a 2-year letterman but he played little back of all-SWC Lloyd Hale, a regular for 3 years and who played more than any of 1956 players. Probable top sophs—Henry Bonorden, Bill Darwin, Bill Godwin.

RG—Third major weakness in middle of line. Two lettermen back in Harold Price and Jim Langston, neither of whom played much behind all-SWC Dennis Goehring, 3-year regular. Probable top sophs—Bubby Payne and Gerald Moore. Bill Webb, mammoth junior college transfer from San Angelo, could help if he gets his weight down around 230. Weighed 260 at end of spring drills.

RT—Adequate with Lettermen Ken Beck and Jim Stanley. Both played last year behind Regular Bobby Lockett with Stanley playing some guard. Gale Oliver and Max Woodard probable top sophs.

RE—Adequate with Starter John Tracey and letterman Don Smith back plus Soph Ed Neill who improved vastly this spring.

QB—Good depth with holdover two-year lettermen Roddy Osborne and Jimmy Wright back plus Soph Charles Milstead who looked good offensively in spring.

LH—Good one deep with John Crow. A problem back of Crow with best bets being Sophs Dick Lewis and Bob Sanders plus Letterman Carlos Esquivel.

RH—Good one deep with Loyd Taylor. Soph Jim Frost improved in spring. Bobby Conrad also returns.

FB—No Pardees here but Dick Gay improved offensively in spring and is adequate linebacker. Behind Gay is Soph Gordon LeBoeuf.

Depth this year is better at tackle and end than last year but real problem is depth in backfield at the three deep backs plus center and both guards. Quantity not a problem. There are plenty of players but none of top quality.

Coaches will spend much time on movies this summer taking 11 best players and placing them by positions; then taking next best 11, etc. With the right changes next fall Aggies could have good first team but would still face problem of second team as during 1956 campaign.

Team speed not as good as at the end of 1956. Osborne the only quick player returning. Because of injuries in spring team could not work as unit and must develop team speed early in fall.

Marks, Krueger, Tracey, Osborne, Crow and Taylor are returning starters. Starters gone are Powell and Goehring at guards, Hale at center, Pardee at fullback and Lockett at right tackle. Nineteen lettermen return. Eleven gone.

Sophs who showed most improvement in spring: Ends Neill, Caruthers, King, Guards Payne and Munson plus Backs Milstead, Lewis, Frost, Sanders and LeBoeuf.

North Carolina State College

By Bill Hensley

"If I were a sportswriter," Earle Edwards said, "I would say that North Carolina State is going to be an improved football team in 1957. On paper, prospects for a good season are bright.

"However," the Wolfpack coach continued, "I'm a coach and naturally I avoid sounding too optimistic, knowing that a lot of things could happen between now and the end of the season.

"I will say this . . . I'll be greatly disappointed if we aren't better than we've been for the past several years."

And that, briefly, is a head coach's outlook on the '57 season.

Edwards, beginning his fourth year at State, has reasons for his modest optimism. Nineteen lettermen are on hand this year, including one at each position on the sarting eleven. Only one starter—tackle John Szuchan—is missing from last year.

In addition, the squad has more depth than any State team in the past ten years, more experience, more size in the line, and a fast backfield sparked by two great halfbacks in Dick Christy and Dick Hunter.

"I rate Christy and Hunter with the best college football has to offer," Edwards says frankly. "Both are fine runners, passers, kickers and blockers and their defensive play is topnotch. I don't know anything else a coach could ask for in a player."

In the line, the Wolfpack has two ends who will vie with Christy and Hunter for the headlines this year. They are John Collar, a senior, and Bob Pepe, a junior. Both are excellent two-way performers.

"In the past," Edwards said, "we have been hurt when we had to substitute. Now we can make changes at several positions without weakening the team."

On the debit side of the ledger is a tough schedule which calls for only three home games. State's first five games are on the road, which doesn't make things any easier. The Wolfpack meets North Carolina, Maryland, Clemson, Duke, Wake Forest and South Carolina in the Atlantic Coast Conference and has intersectional contests with Florida State, Miami, Virginia Tech and William and Mary.

Several promising sophomores, excellent team spirit and a successful spring practice are other factors which are causing the Wolfpack to look forward to the 1957 season. On paper, the prospects are bright.

Duke University

By Ted Mann

There are some real men on this up-coming Duke University football team—men who believe that the easiest way to the goal line is to take the ball and run over the opposition. The Blue Devils will be big, strong and powerful—a bit slow maybe—but we repeat, "big, strong and powerful."

With such tried and true boys in the middle of the line as Roy Hord, Buzz Guy, Tom Topping, and Wady Byrd and a bevy of the fine backs in Harold McElhaney, Phil Dupler, Wray Carlton, Eddie Ruston, Skitch Rudy, George Dutrow and Bobby Honeycutt, the Blue Devils are not likely to "roll over and play dead" this fall.

If all material is available for the season, Duke will have the equipment to execute the Split-T system to the highest degree. There are backs who can run up the middle or around the ends; there are boys who can pass and those who can receive.

Let's hear from Coach Murray on the situation:

"We had a very enthusiastic spring practice and we feel we will have a spirited well-organized squad with enough experienced candidates at each position to field at least one good team. Our big problem this fall is to replace a truly great quarterback in Sonny Jurgesen and six starters from our first team line. Though we are optimistic as to our chances to have a good team, we realize more than anyone else that our prospects depend a lot on having all of our good football players back with us this fall and free from injuries during the season because at many places there is not too much depth."

Position by Position: ENDS: "Good but not deep." There are five experienced boys from the 1956 squad—Bill Thompson, Dave Hurm, Bert Lattimore, Doug Padgett and Jim Bartal. TACKLES: "Biggest problem." Lack of experience is the reason this is labelled as is. Tom Topping who played much last year is the outstanding candidate. John Keresy and Bill Recinella both had limited experience last season. GUARDS: "Very good." Roy Hord and Buddy Stanley, alternate starters last year at left guard return. CENTER: "Good, with question mark." Wade Byrd, who had much seasoning last season, is back and so is Jack Harrison, a top player before hurt in second game of season. QUARTERBACK: "Good" A host of good candidates removes any fear of depth with Bob Brodhead and Pryor Millner the leading candidates. HALFBACK: "Excellent." A plentiful supply of outstanding candidates makes the halfback posts one of the strongest positions. Candidates covered above. FULLBACK: "Excellent." The three fullbacks from last year's squad, McElhaney, Dupler and Jim Harris are back for another year.

Wake Forest College

By Marvin Francis

Coach Paul Amen earned the coveted honor of "Coach Of The Year In The ACC" in his first season at the Wake Forest helm when he guided the Demon Deacons to a 2-5-3 record last fall. This year he faces a much tougher assignment as indications point to a much rougher schedule.

Sixteen lettermen from the 1956 club are back, but only six of them saw considerable action last season. The Deacon mentor will be forced to build an entirely new backfield. The squad was handed a tough blow early in the summer when last year's No. 1 quarterback, Charlie Carpenter, had to undergo surgery for a ruptured spinal disc and will be out for the entire campaign.

Jim Dalrymple, last year's starting left half, was switched to quarterback during spring practice, and he and sophomore Charles (Preacher) Parker will have to shoulder the entire load this fall.

Finding a replacement for All-America fullback Bill Barnes is another major problem. Barnes established two new ACC records last season when he gained a total of 1,010 yards rushing. All candidates for the fullback spot, an all-important position in Amen's Army-T attack, are sophomores. Neil MacLean, a 195-pound ex-serviceman, and Pete Manning, a 200-pounder, are the leading candidates.

Ralph Brewster is the lone experienced flankman, but the remainder of the forward wall, from tackle-to-tackle, appears capable of handling the job. Co-captains George Johnson at tackle and Eddie Moore at center will anchor the line.

Amen expects to have a more versatile attack despite the loss of Barnes, and the club should have a little more depth at all positions than in the past.

University of North Carolina

By Jake Wade

Jim Tatum will open his second campaign this fall at his alma mater, and as he so aptly puts it, "the only way we can go is up."

The big Tar Heel saw his first one at Chapel Hill turn out to be a disastrous one, especially after the ACC took away his two wins and a tie to give him an 0-10 season. The ACC took the action after it was discovered that an ineligible player had participated in these games. The Tar Heel staff was not aware of his status during the season.

There was a great Spring practice at Chapel Hill, with keen competition for each position. Halfback Ed Sutton was the principal loss. Otherwise, the Blue and White has a fine group of upcoming sophomores; they were last year's frosh team, the one brought in after Tatum returned to Carolina. Also there are a couple of fine transfers to go along with the lettermen returning who were schooled last year under the Tatum way of playing football.

Quarterback Dave Reed is the big boy in Tatum's attack this fall. He holds the key to winning games. He is an exceptional play caller, fine runner, good ball handler, and fine passer. This is the required equipment for a Split-T general.

Emil DeCantis, Danny Droze, and Daley Goff lead the returning backs along with fullback Bob Shupin, University of Washington transfer and halfback Jim Shuler, Georgia transfer. Newcomers of great value will be Cornell Johnson and Wade Smith.

The line stacks up with Buddy Payne and Jimmy Jones at the ends; Leo Russavage and Phil Blazer, tackles; sophomore Don Stallings and Jack Lineberger, guards; and Fred Swearingen and Jim Davis, center.

The feeling in the Tar Heel camp re-echoes Tatum's remarks, "The only way we can go is up."

University of Tennessee

By Gus Manning

During the 1957 football season Coach Bowden Wyatt will use his traditional single-wing system with a balanced line. The single-wing is a power formation that depends upon the double team block, the trap, and the wide end sweep that consists of the option run or pass.

Tennessee's running game is based on power, with much deception shown in the backfield. The running game will be led by two powerful running fullbacks, Tommy Bronson and Carl Smith. Sophomore Neyle Sollee will add the elusiveness to the fullback position. Although tailback Bobby Gordon runs with the power of a fullback, he is also a very deceptive runner; Al Carter and George Wright are other tailbacks with varied running ability. Wingbacks Bill Anderson and Bobby Sandlin will attempt to keep the famous Tennessee reverse alive. Paving the way for the Vol ball-carriers will be Stockton Adkins, selected as the outstanding blocker in the conference last season, and Bill Bennett, the No. 2 blocking back last season.

The key loss from last year's team was tailback John Majors. One could go on endlessly reciting the accomplishments of the diminutive halfback but replacing him in the Vol backfield is a major problem to the Tennessee coaching staff.

Up front in the line, where football games are won and lost, Tennessee lost six of their starting seven linemen from last year's championship team. The departure of ends Buddy Cruze, Roger Urbano, and Edd Cantrell have created additional problems for Coach Wyatt and his staff. All-Southeastern Conference tackle John Gordy and Charles Rader were starters for the past two seasons. Dependable Bruce Burnham was a guard without a weakness. Reliable Bubba Howe was an equal to any center in the South last season. At the present time Tommy Potts and Landon Darty have the inside on the Vol flank positions.

Jim Smelcher will be one of the smallest tackles in college football, and has won the admiration of his coaches by his aggressiveness and desire to play. Smelcher's running mate Frank Kolinsky will be the largest man on the Vols' starting team at 205 pounds.

Guards Bill Johnson (the only regular lineman on the 1956 team) and Bobby Urbano, give the Tennessee line the fastest pair of guards in the history of Tennessee football. Versatile Lon Herzbrun is capable of playing either guard position. .

Ray Moss or Ray Brann will perform the center chores. Bill Lanter, undoubtedly the lightest center in the league at 178 pounds will be used offensively. Dave Stottlemyer, two year veteran at the center position, has undergone a knee operation and his status is undetermined.

The 1957 football squad will consist of 17 seniors, 16 juniors, and 28 untried sophomores. The Tennessee team will have plenty of speed and determination but will be lacking in size, experience, and depth. Coach Bowden Wyatt and his squad of Volunteers will be called upon to play the toughest schedule in the Southeastern Conference, and although the Vols should be a very interesting team to watch they are a long way from being a championship team.

University of South Carolina

By Bob Isbell

Last year, Warren Giese's first season as head coach of South Carolina's Gamecocks, he had a team dominated by sophomores.

This year, he says the team has even less experience.

"We've got less experience in six of the 11 starting posts," he says, "But the team speed is about the same. Perhaps there's a shade more speed at tackle."

Last season, Giese indicated that his raw talent had fine spirit, and that such cooperation would go a long way toward making up for the inexperience.

The Gamecocks came through with seven victories and but three defeats. They never won a game by more than two touchdowns and never lost by more than one.

This spring the 1957 Gamecocks "have as much competitive spirit as any squad I've ever seen," Giese said: "I think the type of team we have will play the same exciting football that characterized last season when eight of 10 games were decided in the fourth quarter."

One of the Gamecocks' big problems this year is replacing Mackie Prickett who quarterbacked the team for three years. Only one man, Sam Vickers, saw any experience at all in 1956 as signal caller. Vickers underwent a shoulder operation this spring and his status remains questionable.

Gone also are all-Atlantic Coast Conference end Buddy Frick and tackle Sam DeLuca, a second-round draft choice by the New York Giants.

However, 19 lettermen will return, and among the brightest stars of the lot is big John Kompara, DeLuca's understudy last year.

Other all-star contenders among the returning Gamecocks are rising juniors King Dixon and Alex Hawkins, the sensational sophomore touchdown twins of last year. Together they gained almost 1,500 yards, the most any sophomore combination ever recorded for the school. Dixon runs, kicks, passes and receives. Hawkins runs, passes, and receives and kicks extra points.

Julius Derrick and Eddie Beall head the ends, and Don Rogers appears to be Kompara's tackle-mate. Others are guards Nelson Weston and Tommy Addison, center Lawton Rogers and fullbacks Don Johnson and Bobby Barrett.

Brightest among the newcomers appear to be John Saunders, fullback, and tackles Kirk Phares and Ed Pitts.

Clemson College

By Bob Bradley

Rookie quarterbacks Harvey White and Johnnie Mac Goff hold the key to whatever success the Tigers enjoy this season. However, Coach Frank Howard says coyly, "I don't think there is a school anywhere with two soph quarterbacks who could come near being the ball players these are." White is a 6-2, 200-pounder with Goff a 165-pounder and 5-10. Their worth may be noted in the fact that Clemson threw only 80 passes all last season. In the spring practice game, the pair tried 31 and completed 19.

"We are going to have to throw the ball more. That's something we couldn't do last season. Our Orange Bowl squad was more business-like and didn't get fired up like this one this spring. If soph tackles Harold Olson, Jim Padget, Lou Cordilaone and Morris Keller reach their potential right quick-like, there's no telling how good we might be," Howard said. The Tigers had 14 rookie tackles on the roster. The lone veteran tackle and a good one, is Jim McCanless.

The big loss in the backfield of course is halfback Joel Wells. However, Rudy Hayes, moved from fullback to halfback and Charlie Horne make a pair of fine hard-running halfbacks who also are tops defensively. The fullback duties will be handled by the fine veteran Bob Spooner.

Co-captains Leon Kaltenback and John Grdijan lead the fine battle for the guard positions. There are four other lettermen at this spot and some fine newcomers.

Donnie Bunton and Bill Thomas will handle the pivot chores.

Four lettermen ends return to try to keep their places from a hungry gang of eleven yearlings.

University of Miami

By George Gallet

University of Miami finished the 1956 football season as the No. 6 ranking football team in the nation in all three national polls.

The team finished No. 1 in the defensive statistics after holding TCU, Clemson and West Virginia scoreless and allowing only Pittsburgh to score more than one TD.

A two-unit attack—called alternate teams—was employed by Coach Andy Gustafson with great success in '56. The units were almost of equal strength.

When the 1957 season rolls around, one of these units will be missing—having been lost by graduation. Most of the other unit will be back and will form the backbone of the new Hurricane grid machine.

From last year's squad, only 13 out of 30 lettermen return, while the 1957 squad has more sophomores, than juniors and seniors put together.

However, despite the great losses, there has been little in the way of weeping by the coaching staff. The sophomore talent is some of the finest seen at Miami in some years and close followers of southern football say: "Don't be surprised if coach Andy Gustafson comes up with another tough ball club this coming fall."

Indications point toward the Hurricanes having a tougher line—particularly on offense—in 1957. Gustafson himself has said on a number of occasions that Miami's offensive line play in '57 will be stronger than last year.

Vester Newcomb, the great Miami center of last year who was one of the men who helped make the Hurricanes No. 1 in the nation on defense, looks like a lineman of all-American calibre. He's rated down here as one of the finest all-around centers and line-backers ever to come out of Miami.

Charley Diamond, a 220 pound, 6-3, tackle, who last year started half of the Miami ball games despite the fact that he was just a sophomore, is another great player in the Miami line and a potential all-American. Still another rugged and powerful player in the Hurricane line is the other tackle, Gary Greaves. Miami's tackle play in 1957 could be the best in the school's history.

As for the Miami backfield, Captain John Varone may be hard man to stop at right halfback. Varone came to Miami as an all-American high school football player from Boston, Mass., and in his sophomore year in 1955 (two years ago), he had a 7.04 running average; helped Miami beat Pitt at Pitt Stadium, and was a big star against Notre Dame in the Orange Bowl. Miami's attack last year was built around All-American Don Bosseler at fullback, so Varone was somewhat in the background. However, the Boston strong boy, a great runner, pass receiver and defensive man, displayed more in the spring drills than any time he has been here and a great year is predicted for him.

Following the recent spring drills, Coach Gustafson commented: "Varone has shown his greatest play since coming to Miami and we expect him to have his greatest year in 1957."

Bonnie Yarbrough, one of the two quarterbacks who led Miami's attack last year, has returned and will have help from two talented sophomore quarterbacks Maury Guttman and Fran Curci. All three Miami quarterbacks are left handed passers and the southpaw flingers are expected to cause the U-M opposition no little bit of trouble when they start throwing their running passes. Guttman can pitch the ball with either hand.

Bill Sandie, who came to Miami from New York as an all-American high school player, will seek to fill the shoes of all-American Don Bosseler a fullback. Harry Deiderich, a promising sophomore, appears next in line.

The 1957 Miami team may be better balanced than last year when Bosseler was the main show. The team will be a young club. It needs some mileage, but once the burly U-M sophomores catch on and gain early season experience, the U-M ball club could be a tough one.

University of Virginia

By Dick Turner

Ben Martin, looking ahead to his second season at Virginia, has announced that "we will have an improved team on the field in '57, led by our inspirational captain, Jim Bakhtiar."

Bakhtiar approaches his third and final varsity season with good prospects of making it his best. He gained 879 yards last year to rank fifth among the national rushing leaders and otherwise distinguished himself.

The 198-pound fullback will have the same company of Nelson Yarbrough, quarterback, and Sonny Randle and Alvin Cash, halfbacks, who were the usual game starters last season. Yarbrough was the ACC's leading passer for '56.

In the second backfield at the end of spring practice were Reece Whitley, quarterback; Ralph Kneeland and Carl Moser, halfbacks, and Bob Davids, fullback. Whitley was the No. 1 quarterback as a sophomore last Fall until he broke his throwing arm in the second game, being disabled for the rest of the season. Kneeland is a two-year letterman, while Moser and Davids will be sophomore beginners.

The first line, solid with carry-over veterans, was formed by Fred Polzer and Pat Whitaker, ends; Joe White and Harold Outten, tackles; Jim Keyser and Frank Call, guards, and Scott Teunis, center. Keyser, who won All-ACC honors at center last year, will carry on as a linebacker on defense. Another major shift sent Outten to tackle from guard.

As it was this Spring, the most important item on the practice schedule in September will be the continuous development of a supporting line. Nine departing seniors who leave some thin spots are Bob Gunderman and Tucker McLaughlin, ends; Henry Jordan, Don Kovach, Jim St. Clair and Ron Melnik, tackles, and Jay Corson, Ben Petrilli and Frank Fannon, guards.

"A number of new men will be seeing action during the season as we try to mould a second unit to relieve the first team," Martin has said. "In the line, you will be seeing and reading about boys like Dave Graham, Mike Riley, John McCaffrey, George Sempeles, Bob Carlisle, Wayne Whelan, Bob Edwards and Roger Zenson."

Finishing Spring practice as the second line were Graham and Riley, ends; John Diehl and Sempeles, tackles; Jim Candler and Jim McShane, guards, and Bob Canevari, center. Diehl, who is 6-6 and weighs 275, is the only letterman of the second seven.

"Our success in facing 10 major opponents will depend primarily on the strength of our second team, and will be further dependent on the development of our sophomores," is the way Martin sees it.

TERP THUMBNAIL SKETCHES

ENDS

ED COOKE, 21, 6-4, 235, Senior from Norfolk, Va.—one of the Terps' finest end prospects since the early 50's when the Red and White had such lanky stalwarts as Pete Augsberger and Lloyd Colteryahn, but Cooke, after a sensational sophomore year, became victimized by the injury plague which hit the Terp camp in so many places last fall . . . with a great outdoor effort in track behind him, it looks like the big boy has mended and could come up with a top-notch year, a feat that he is most capable of doing . . . one of the fastest men on the team, outrunning some of the backs . . . his speed, size, and exceptional ability to catch a pass makes him a dangerous target . . . with his great strength, he is a fine defensive player; hard to get by or around . . . practiced spring ball as well as competing full time for the track team . . . was indoor and outdoor shot-put champion of the ACC for the second consecutive year . . . set a new school and ACC dual meet mark with a toss of 53 feet 1½ inches in the Virginia meet . . . set a new ACC meet record with a mark of 52 feet 4 inches . . . is now being considered one of the nation's best and has this indoor and outdoor season to perform . . . also throws the discus and javelin . . . won all three events in Virginia meet and won shot and discus in all six dual meets as well as the ACC outdoor crowns in shot and discus . . . could be one of the big stars for the Terp gridders . . . married former cheerleader and Homecoming Queen Jody Floyd last November . . . in School of Business and Public Administration.

BEN SCOTTI, 20, 6-1, 185, Junior from Long Branch, N. J.—after making his bid as freshman as a top candidate for a first team job when he made the step up to the varsity, the rugged Scotti did just that . . . showed exceptional skill in early fall practice and won a starting job and never relinquished it . . . was the lone steady performer each game . . . conscientious hard worker . . . has exceptional eagerness and desire . . . has fine speed and a good pair of hands making him top receiver . . . very aggressive which helps him to excel defensively . . . a tough man to beat . . . always gives top effort . . . good offensive showings last year as a soph which labeled him as one of team top blockers . . . younger brother Anthony, all-State, a freshman for the Terps . . . caught two passes for 18 yards and had one interception for 13 yard return . . . was all-State in high school . . . was also 175-pound state wrestling champion . . . was honorable mention all-Catholic all-American in football . . . in School of Arts and Science.

BILL STEPPE, 21, 6-1, 200, Junior from Cumberland, Md.—came into the picture last fall to play some top football . . . a fine two-way player who has a good habit of getting in the open . . . fast and a sure receiver . . . makes good effort for the ball, like Scotti . . . his potential proven this spring as he made a good impression . . . played first team on the left side and the job is his this fall . . . Bill will be out to keep it in one of the main battles for starting assignments on the team . . . serious, hard worker . . . won the James Turner Memorial Award and the Hazelwood Award at Fort Hill High for his star career there . . . was President of the National Honor Society . . . in School of Education . . . married and has a daughter.

AL BEARDSLEY, 22, 6-0, 185, Junior from Pittsburgh, Pa.—another of the Terps' most talked about end prospects . . . had a great frosh year and started the '56 campaign with excellent promise . . . injuries throughout the season kept him on the sidelines most of the year . . . one of the most respected men on the squad. . . real strong with a lot of two-way ability which he exhibits and makes his play most noticeable . . . flashy defensive player . . . brought a fabulous reputation with him from St. Justin High School and has two more years to cash in after the injury soph year slowed him down . . . good speed . . . lot of desire and determination . . . caught four passes for 97 yards and a touchdown pass in Miami game . . . picked off one enemy aerial . . . will be pushing for return to first team . . . in School of Business and Public Administration.

BILL TURNER, 23, 6-3, 205, Senior from Silver Spring, Md.—a two-year end letterman ready for another fine effort . . . has contributed two good years . . . "Moose" as his teammates call him is a top all-around competitor . . . shows well both offense and defense . . . had a good spring practice and is counted on for heavy duty this year . . . good speed and top receiver . . . tough on defense . . . was the top receiver of '56 as he snagged seven passes for 74 yards . . . was all-State tackle at Montgomery Blair High . . . married . . . in School of Business and Public Administration with an Industrial Management major.

BILL MARTIN, 21, 6-1, 200, Junior from Kittanning, Pa.—after working hard for the B squad last year and coming up with a very promising spring practice, a lot of help is expected of the former Kittanning star . . . big boy with fine pair of hands and pretty fair speed . . . could be a real good receiver . . . serious hard worker who has a lot of desire to play . . . has a good chance to make the boys up front hustle . . . all-section in football, basketball, and baseball in high school . . . Pre-Dent School . . . married.

BOB ALEXANDER, 22, 6-0, 200, Junior from Pleasant Hills, Pa.—coaches have hopes that the hard-working "Alec" will play a great deal this fall . . . has fine two-way abilities featured by his pass receiving . . . good defensive player . . . desire to play big attribute . . . was a Baldwin High School star in tough WPIAL league . . . in School of Agriculture.

RONALD SHAFFER, 19, 6-2, 205, Sophomore from Cumberland, Md.—one of the most recent "stars" to come to Maryland from Fort Hill High, and Coach Bill Hahn . . . a fine looking prospect who came up with a sensational freshman year . . . caught many passes and made an indelible impression on defense . . . a serious hard working player who should make his mark this fall and establish himself as one of the big stars for the future . . . offensively he is a fine blocker, has real good speed and a glue-fingered receiver . . . should give the veterans fits for their job . . . was all-City and honorable mention all-State . . . in School of Education.

KEN POLING, 20, 6-2, 195, Sophomore from Cumberland, Md.—another of the top-flight Fort Hill boys who has a great chance to be a star performer as a Terp end . . . after a year on the B squad and a fine spring practice the former Fort Hill ace should be ready, with a bit of experience, to lend some good play to the end corps . . . in Pre-Dental School.

TACKLES

FRED COLE, 20, 5-11, 225, Junior from Newark, N.J.—billed last fall as one of the future great tackles at Maryland following a sensational freshman year, the big likeable Engineering student more than lived up to his reputation . . . playing behind the much heralded Mike Sandusky, the husky sophomore made a great reputation with his outstanding offensive and defensive heroics . . . when FRED came to College Park, he was labeled by former coach Jim Tatum as another all-American and one who would take his place alongside the many great Terp tackles whose names as all-Americans are still memorable in Terp football history the past decade . . . definitely a great star and one who should assist greatly in the expected top line play this season . . . it will be on him that the coaches will place many special tasks during the year . . . has exceptional speed and uncanny reactions, forward and lateral . . . picturesque blocker and great diagnosis of plays making him a noticeable defensive analyst . . . other than the Terp staff realizing his greatness, he took the eye of a dozen pro coaches in the press box during the varsity-alumni game . . . he was singled out as the top lineman, along with center Gene Alderton . . . one went so far to say: "If I had a game tomorrow, and he was my tackle, he would be first team, even better than those I have now. He's a great ball player." . . . these are rather powerful words to place on the then sophomore tackle who had just completed his first season of varsity competition and had also just finished playing against an all-pro team of former Terp players . . . there is every reason to predict that he could be one of the top tackles in the country today and maybe even more select . . . a sure bet for many high honors this year . . . he also is a shot putter . . . younger brother Bob entered school in February . . . in School of Engineering.

DON HEALY, 21, 6-3, 235, Senior from Rome, N.Y.—another big strong tackle from whom the Terp coaches expect a banner year . . . a fierce competitor who never wants to slow up . . . has had two outstanding seasons and this will be his best effort as the front man on the powerful left side of the line . . . an excellent blocker and most powerful defensively . . . has exceptional strength and uses it well in blocking his opponent and following through . . . a keen competitor . . . also played baseball and hockey at Rome Acedemy . . . was honorable mention all-State . . . a Pre-Dental student.

TOM STEFL, 22, 6-1, 220, Senior from Brownsville, Pa.—with two outstanding years behind him, the big strong veteran has himself ready to move in if the other boys let down a bit . . . always giving his best which has been a first class effort while in the game . . . has real good speed and a tower of strength on defense . . . a fine tackler and good blocker . . . works hard all the time and has a lot of determination . . . will be one of the better linemen this fall if past performances and experience are indicative . . . ability is there . . . was a three sport star at Brownsville and highly sought after . . . a Pre-Medical student.

CHARLES CARROLL, 19, 6-1, 220, Sophomore from Philadelphia, Pa.—here is a boy who has had the coaches beaming for two years . . . was on the B squad last fall after a great frosh performance . . . was brilliant last fall for the B team and this spring . . . another of the "better" tackle prospects in the Terp camp for some time . . . with the added experience gained last fall, the big strong hard-working affable soph is counted on to give additional strength at tackle spot . . . gives all-out brilliant efforts all the time, offensively and defensively . . . was tabbed for stardom early and with continued top play, will be . . . he and Stefl "must" for Mont . . . was all-Catholic and all-Scholastic at LaSalle as well as a star track man . . . in School of Business and Public Administration.

BILL BURGLY, 23, 6-3, 205, Junior from New Kensington, Pa. — the big rangy Pennsylvanian turned in a fine '56 season and a good spring practice labeled him as one to see a lot of duty this fall in helping to bolster the fine tackle spot for the Terps . . . "Buck" as his teammates call him, is a hard working goliath, especially on defense . . . he likes it rough and tough, as several opponents learned last fall . . . difficult to move him out of the play . . . an efficient blocker . . . should have a real good year . . . in School of Agriculture.

KURT SCHWARZ, 21, 5-11, 200, Sophomore from Hackensack, N.J.—came to Maryland as a highly regarded prospect and with the help of Chet (the Jet) Hanulak, Terp all-America halfback from Hackensack . . . raised the eyebrows of then Coach Jim Tatum and his staff as a freshman and was labeled as truly one of the all-timers for Maryland . . . Kurt went into the service and returned last year . . . during spring practice, he played guard and tackle and will probably see both this fall . . . but it doesn't make much difference for he gave a brilliant exhibition in spring drills . . . easily one of the BEST linemen . . . could give the veterans something to watch for . . . does a brilliant job offensively and defensively, especially shows signs of brilliance on defense . . . he will be a great addition for Mont . . . one to watch closely this fall . . . he will make himself noticed . . . in School of Business and Public Administration . . . was a three-sport star at Hackensack.

TOM FLOR, 20, 6-0, 215, Sophomore from Elizabeth, N.J.—still another of the fine Terp tackle candidates who was lured to College Park by line coach Bob Ward, an Elizabeth native . . . has good size and a vast potential . . . with some game experience, he is sure to help the tackle cause . . . was held out last fall and did a good job then and again this spring . . . was all-State at Thomas Jefferson as well as all-County and on the all-Star team . . . in School of Business and Public Administration.

GUARDS

PAUL TONETTI, 22, 6-2, 210, Senior from Massepequa, N.Y.—has come up with two excellent seasons and in the '56 campaign he took over the number one job for the most part and played skillfully all the time . . . a much heralded ball player who has come through as one of the Terps' finest guards . . . consistent fine play . . . Ward labels him one of easiest boys to coach . . . always trying to learn and do better . . . due to carve a "star" niche in Terp annals this fall . . . a standout two-way performer . . . has good speed, quick charge and moves easily with the play as a keen and quick follower of the play . . . a powerful tackler and his all-business-like mannerisms on the field make him a most valuable player . . . one of the finest offensive blockers seen on a Terp line . . . will be another seeking all-star honors . . . sure to be one of the most looked at in the Conference . . . all-County in New York in football . . . also on track team . . . in School of Business and Public Administration.

RONALD ATHEY, 21, 5-10, 200, Senior from Cumberland, Md.—with Tonetti, the Terps figure to get some of their finest play at the guard spot . . . Athey has been a student two years and the '56 season saw him excel . . . was more than a capable replacement for Jack Davis, the much talked about right guard last year . . . another product of the Fort Hill High, he is one of the strongest men on the team . . . has fine blocking skills and is as tough to move as they come on defense . . . a vicious tackler and an efficient tackler . . . pursues the play well . . . counted on to give the right side of the line a big boost with Cole and Scotti . . . a quiet hard worker who goes about his assignment methodically and gets it done . . . one to watch this fall . . . married and has a daughter . . . was all-city, county, and state . . . in School of Education.

RODNEY BREEDLOVE, 19, 6-2, 215, Sophomore from Cumberland, Md.—this boy a product of Allegany High, not Fort Hill . . . in fact he is a product of freshman coach Roy Lester who talked Breedlove into coming to College Park with him when Lester was named freshman coach . . . this is the upcoming boy to watch . . . he definitely, on the basis of his freshman year and spring practice has to be tabbed a future big star as a great at Maryland . . . as Coach Mont has said, he is the finest prospect we have had as a lineman, in some time . . . most of the time a boy will show his greatness potential as a sophomore following some experience or early his junior year, but Breedlove showed it as a freshman and playing end . . . as a frosh end, he caught five td passes and three extra point passes . . . he has great speed and tremendous hands and ability to catch the ball if it is near him . . . he has top maneuverability . . . however, where he really impresses is on defense . . . nothing could get near him that he wasn't making the tackle or helping with it . . . he's a great rover, making tackles all over the place and rushes well also . . . during spring drills, Mont moved him to guard to take advantage of his defensive skills as a linebacker . . . Ward says he is the finest young prospect and one of the best he has coached . . . has tremendous strength, is agile, and has an intense desire to play football . . . his desire and over anxiety to get his hands on somebody sometimes gets him into trouble . . . he must completely overcome the habit of losing his temper . . . was all-City in '55 and '56 as well as all-State his senior year . . . member of National Honor Society . . . in Arts and Science, majoring in Government and Politics.

NICK DECICCO, 21, 5-11, 210, Senior from Brooklyn, N.Y.—a top-rated boy who has given the Terps two exceptional years of guard play . . . has been in and out of the number one spot and is sure to be pushing early this fall to start the A&M game . . . has a lot of fight and spirit and is one of most popular boys on the team . . . a powerful guard with plenty of know-how both blocking and tackling . . . good at cleaning out his man and opening a nice hole . . . one of team's keen competitors . . . should have good year . . . is chief cook for annual spaghetti dinner after season closes . . . won the best athlete award senior year in high school and also won the George Wingate award . . . in Scool of Business and Public Administration.

RONALD LANEVE, 20, 6-2, 200, Junior from Pittsburgh, Pa.—counted on heavily to give another fine showing this fall as a guard . . . was switched from center this spring to give some help . . . last year as a soph, Laneve started out with an exceptional impression and was doing a fine job as number two center behind regular Gene Alderton until hit by yellow jaundice after the Miami game, the fourth of the season . . . he had to miss the remainder of the season, with teammate Howie Dare who missed the entire season with jaundice . . . by spring, he was able to practice and worked at both center and guard . . . will be able to utilize talent at both spots, depending on where needed . . . fine blocker, initial and downfield . . . most noticeable defensively as a linebacker . . . will be a valuable spot man . . . was all-City in the tough and top-ranking Pittsburgh city schools . . . in School of Physical Education.

TOM GUNDERMAN, 19, 5-10, 200, Sophomore from Franklin, N.J.—a big star for the baby Terps last fall . . . one of the most highly regarded of the newcomers who has convinced the staff that he will play a great deal for the varsity this year . . . opponents listed him as one of the best they faced . . . is another of the finer boys who definitely will help . . . can be regarded as one of the boys to watch closely . . . a future star . . . is a tower of strength both ways . . . tough and impressive defensively . . . fast and has a lot of football savvy . . . shows great deal of interest in his play, on and off the field . . . one of the all-time athletes from Franklin High School.

LYNN ATHEY, 20, 6-2, 210, Sophomore from Front Royal, Va.—a highly sought after boy with tremendous recommendations and record at Warren County High . . . a big strong boy that Mont held out last season in order to give him a good year to gain experience with the B squad . . . has a fine future ahead of him should his potential be exposed and utilized . . . has a fine attitude with keen desire and determination . . . another who can be used at center, a job he had as a freshman when he exhibited some great play . . . size and over-all gridiron ability prompted the move to give assistance at the guard position . . . fine blocker and sure defender . . . was all-District two years . . . also played basketball, baseball, and track . . . in Pre-Medical School.

GUARDS FRED KERN, RON BINETTI, and LEROY DIETRICH will be additional candidates vieing for positions on the varsity . . . this trio has the potential of furnishing one or all three to the top four squads . . . all are young but most capable players.

CENTERS

GENE ALDERTON, 22, 6-0, 200, Senior from Cumberland, Md.—a really great center who proved just that last season after the "nice-guy" had a sensational year as a sophomore but was in the shadow of notoriety as he played behind the Terps' great all-time center and Player of the Year, Bob Pellegrini . . .. greatness was predicted for Alderton, another Fort Hill product . . . he has lived up to his expectations and reputation as he came through with a second brilliant year in '56 . . . his performance was noticed and rewarded as he was given all-America honorable mention by the Associated Press and United Press . . . he also was named all-Conference first team center by the Associated Press . . . the Southern Writers placed him on their third squad . . . he possesses great skill that a center needs and is a tremendous linebacker . . . he can be seen making tackles all over the field . . . a blocker that seems to have no equal from the pivot spot . . . drives his man out and goes on to clean out other tacklers . . . has great speed and a fine football mind . . . takes pride in his position as center . . . his good size and compactness permit him the maneuverability to handle most any blocking assignment . . . he is a natural and fiery leader . . . he was elected co-captain for the year by his teammates . . . has uncanny accuracy in centering the ball to a punter whether in close or spread punt . . . on defense, he is a fine diagnostician, a sure tackler, wards off blockers, and pursues well . . . truly one of the fine centers in football today . . . a bona fide all-America candidate . . . it will be Alderton's big chore to lead the Terp line to any success expected of them this fall . . . was all-City and second team all-State at Fort Hill . . . member of National Honor Society . . . in School of Education, majoring in Education for Industry.

WILBUR MAIN, 22, 6-2, 195, Senior from Frederick, Md.—a highly touted and recommended transfer from Potomac State College . . . came through last fall with an exceptional year playing center and guard . . . another who can play either spot, and play it well . . . one of the team's most conscientious workers on the field . . . always working hard . . . likes to mix it up and does a top two-way job . . . efficient blocker with good habits from the pivot spot . . . is tough to move out of the way . . . . does top work defensively . . . fine linebacker . . . is sure to have a good year playing center and guard, if called on . . . was all-State . . . in School of Physical Education.

BOB SUCHY, 22, 6-2, 210, Senior from Baltimore, Md.—a big strong boy with two good years' experience behind him . . . he too can be used at either guard or center . . . has had most playing time past two years as a guard . . . has a fine disposition with an intense desire to play football . . . plays both ways well . . . effective defensively . . . noticeable tackler . . . pursues well . . . was a star at Loyola High . . . majoring in Civil Engineering.

VICTOR SCHWARTZ, 19 6-0, 185, Sophomore from Port Reading, N. J.—here is a boy that came up with a great freshman year and continued to please the Terp coaches, especially center coach Whitey Dovell with his standout and consistently noticeable work this spring . . . he managed to give the veterans a run for their money and in many of the spring scrimmages, he was the number two center . . . this is a spot he could keep if he continues to show so well in the early fall practices . . . not the biggest center candidate in the world, but every bit of him is always giving everything he has . . . just a good rough and tough player who has a lot of skill to accompany his zealous efforts . . . he could be real good this fall . . . the potential, ability, and willingness is there . . . will be out to give the veterans a hard time for the runnerup spot . . . in School of Business and Public Administration.

QUARTERBACKS

DICKIE LEWIS, 20, 5-11, 180, Junior from Martinsburg, W. Va.—there was little doubt last fall that with the sensational "find" of Lewis, the Terps would have undoubtedly some of the nation's greatest quarterbacking with Tambo, Fritsch, and Lewis . . . but the injury plague hit the slick Martinsburg signal caller and he wasn't able to demonstrate his outstanding potential until late in the season . . . as matter of fact, it was in the final game with NC State that he really blossomed and gave indications that his bad ankle was completely healed . . . Lewis had led the Terp frosh to their first undefeated season and then was labeled as another future great Maryland quarterback, a feature of the Red and White for so many years . . . it is on his highly respected ability that the Terps hope to come back this fall . . . he will be handed the reins to lead the team as the season starts . . . a fine triple-threat type qb who can run, pass, punt, and call a masterful sequence of plays . . . has better than average speed for a qb . . . a dangerous runner . . . passes well, better on the short ones, but can throw long . . . fine punter . . . has the attribute of top leadership, on and off the field . . . a fine defensive back . . . it will be on his shoulders that Mont and staff will place the hopes of getting the Terps off to a good start and a successful campaign . . . had a one yard rushing mark for 32 carries . . . came up with a .500 throwing average with ten completions out of 20 attempts . . . for 90 yards . . . had two intercepted . . . punted nine times for a 36.6 average . . . had one kickoff return for eight yards . . . intercepted two for 111 yards return . . . set a new ACC interception return record with a sensational 103-yard runback of an NC State pass for the clinching winning score . . . scored twice in the State victory . . . made all-Section at Martinsburg High two years and honorable mention all-State . . . all-State baseball player . . . also a track man member of National Honor Society . . . in School of Business and Public Administration.

JOHN FRITSCH, 21, 6-0, 185, Senior from Carnegie, Pa.—when the Terps' all-America quarterback Frank Tamburello was lost to the team two days before the opening game with Syracuse because of his induction notice, the task of leading the '56 highly touted Terps fell on the broad and capable shoulders of Fritsch, himself a most respected and highly regarded signal caller . . . John, who figured in only ten offensive plays as a soph, was counted on to split the qb chores with Tambo and upcoming star from the freshman team, Dickie Lewis . . . Fritsch, a slick Split-T operator, accepted the challenge and came up with fine performances, even though the Red and White were taking their lumps . . . with injuries and sickness hitting the team daily, the Terp operation naturally was hurt . . . but Fritsch stayed with it and did his best and was capably helped by Bob Rusevlyan . . . it wasn't until late in the season that Lewis, injured the week before the opener, was able to get into action . . . now with a year's experience behind him, as well as Rusevlyan and Lewis, Fritsch certainly can be counted on for some excellent quarterbacking . . . he is a good two-way player with better than average defensive ability . . . a good tackler and adequate pass defender . . . he is a fine play caller, with good offensive sequence . . . is the Terps' best long passer and a good short chucker . . . is an excellent punter . . . also a good hard runner for a qb . . . set a new ACC punt record with an 88-yard boot against Miami . . . led the Terp scorers last season with three touchdowns and one PAT for 19 points . . . had a .5 rushing mark for 39 carries with losses while back to pass slicing his several good runs . . . threw 52 passes for 23 completions and 219 yards . . . had four picked off . . . had a 38-yard punting average for 27 kicks . . . intercepted one pass for four yard return . . . comes from former Terp all-America qb Bernie Faloney's home town and high school. Scott Twp . . . also starred in baseball and soccer at Scott . . . in School of Arts and Sciences, majoring in Sociology.

BOB RUSEVLYAN, 21, 5-11, 175, Junior from Washington, D. C.—this former St. John's great has come to be the Terps' "real" trouble-shooter . . . and an excellent one . . . with the injury toll last fall, the "Splinter" showed brilliantly while playing quarterback and halfback . . . he would be seen playing halfback one series of plays and then quarterback in the next . . . does an excellent job at either spot . . . looks much better as a quarterback . . . it is believed he has the best quarterback mind on the team . . . looks good as he mixes up his sequence with good calls and some fancy running . . . a very elusive runner and a smart one . . . coaches say he is one that has some of all the qualifications for a quarterback . . . his size minimizes his passing ability, especially the long one . . . can but doesn't do punting, leaving it up to the halfback in his unit . . . along with his offensive adequacy, he is a top defensive back . . . his keen defensive skill enabled him to lead the team in pass interceptions with three for a 15 yard return . . . at the close of the season, the coaches and teammates voted him the "outstanding defensive back" award . . . was one of DC's finest all-time athletes, gaining all-Metropolitan honors in football and basketball . . . it is conceivable to believe that "The Splinter" will have a great year for the Terps . . . married this summer . . . in School of Business and Public Administration.

BILL JOHNSTONE, 20, 5-11, 175, Senior from Lewiston, N. Y.—one of the finest boys on the squad and definitely the most conscientious . . . has been on the Terp B squad and this fall should see varsity duty . . . Bill has handled the signal calling job for the B team, working the opponents plays and has done a top job . . . good left-handed passer . . . fine punter . . . could be a big help as substitute qb . . . has tremendous desire to play . . . was all-West New York League playing for Bishop Duffy High . . was valedictorian of his class as well as class president junior and senior years . . . has close to an A average in Pre-Medical School.

DALE BETTY, 19, 6-0, 175, Sophomore from Butler, Pa.—the top quarterback coming up from the frosh team . . . was out a lot with injury but his potential and abilities are known and is labeled as another fine future signal caller . . . can call a fine game . . . punts and passes well . . . a good runner and has real good defensive ability . . . he could be called on to help this year.

HALFBACKS

FRED HAMILTON, 21, 5-11, 180, Senior from Freeport, Pa.—after two brilliant years playing both halfback and fullback, the "workhorse" of the Terp backfield these two seasons, returns for his final chapter and with the recommendations of his own coaches and of the opponents coaches that he will be the main backfield candidate for all-star honors for the Terps . . . made several all-opponent teams last year . . . Hamilton has missed only one game since he started the season of '55 and that was the Syracuse contest when he was recovering from a shoulder injury received as he starred in a victory over North Carolina the previous week . . . he starred as a soph playing fullback at only 170 pounds, then last season was used at both fullback and halfback; most of the time at right half after soph Jim Hatter came in to do such a good job . . . Hamilton, giving every minute of all-out football, was the only Terp back not to miss a game last fall as injuries hit the others . . . one week he would play fullback and the next be found at right halfback . . . he always worked with a different backfielld since the same foursome wasn't able to start two games . . . it was only Fred that was at the starting post each week . . .clever, hard-type runner who can dig for that extra yard after brought down . . . in six of the ten games he played 55 minutes or more and in two, he played 58 minutes . . . Hamilton has been the star that was predicted for him by former Coach Jim Tatum who called him "one of the greatest all-around football players I ever have coached" . . . and Tommy Mont continues to put the same label on his hard-working veteran . . . he started his career as the big star for the frosh team then as a soph, Tatum had to put him at fullback and he came through spectacularly, as a ball carrier, blocker, and defender . . .the never tiring back who wants to keep a starting job, is a real rugged boy with great power and most of all he possesses delirious desire to play . . . his great blocking was most noticeable from the fullback slot as a soph when he cleared the last man for many of high-scoring Ed Vereb's scores . . . in one of Maryland's greatest football hours, the UCLA game of '55 in Byrd Stadium, Hamilton threw the block on the Bruin wing that enabled Vereb to scoot 17 yards for the only but winning score; Vereb paid him the great tribute by saying, "I wouldn't have scored half that many tds if it hadn't been for the great blocks Hamilton threw for me." . . . had a 4.9 rushing average his soph year and brings a 3.6 average back from his junior year, getting 273 yards for 75 tries . . . threw once . . . caught six passes for 58 yards . . . had three punt returns and four kickoff returns . . . after the season, coaches and teammates voted him "the outstanding offensive back" award . . . one to watch this fall. . . could have good chance for deserving honors . . . in School of Physical Education.

HOWIE DARE, 22, 5-11, 185, Senior from Baltimore, Md.—it is believed and hoped that Dare will provide the big offensive punch as the partial answer for what is expected to be a fine Terp offense this fall. . . a big star for two years, the scintillating running of the elusive halfback could make the difference to go along with Hamilton, Healy, Layman, Kershner and the other halfbacks that got so much fine work last fall while Dare was on the sidelines . . .. the high-stepping Dare and the Maryland camp was jolted severely the day before the opener last fall as he came down with a serious attack of yellow jaundice which sidelined him for the season . . . he was hospitalized for three weeks . . . his absence was most noticeable . . . his return this fall is a great shot in the arm to Mont and the squad . . . the affable Dare is the spectacular type runner . . . a most dangerous type . . . he has the ability to break away and go all the way he will be one to watch closely as the possible "pony" to lead the Terps in front at the finish wire . . . has exceptional skill as a ball carrier and defensive back . . . is extremely dangerous with punt and kickoff returns . . . good passer and top receiver . . . a terrific runner as he utilizes his great speed to twist and turn . . . the galloping Dare's unusual running style makes him the dangerous runner he is reputed to be making him hard to bring down by tacklers . . . a top baseball player . . . has led the Terp batters the past two years, hitting .361 then .357 this spring . . . second team ACC both years . . . set a new ACC stolen base mark this year as he picked off 31 bases for the new record . . . had three homers and nine doubles . . . had a 6.3 rushing average as a soph and a 4.6 mark his junior year . . . all-State at Poly High and on all-Star baseball team his senior year . . . Dare graduated in June from the School of Business and Public Administration with a major in Public Relations . . . he enters Graduate School this fall . . . married and has a son.

JACK HEALY, 21, 5-11, 185, Senior from Brooklyn, N. Y.—the popular Terp co-Captain is another of the star veteran halfbacks returning this fall . . . he, Hamilton, and Layman will vie for the right running spot, a pleasant situation . . . Jack was another of the outstanding backs that had it tough last fall because of repeated injuries . . . then it was in the Clemson game that he injured his knee and had to undergo surgery immediately . . . although he didn't work during spring drills, he will be at full strength this season . . . Healy has been one of the big names in Terp football since he arrived on the scene . . . he won a starting job as a soph and came up with a big year . . . a star both offensively and defensively . . . has fine speed with tremendous power making him a dangerous power runner . . . always comes up with stellar exhibitions and looks spectacular as he does a methodical job . . . opponents say he is one of the hardest runners in the league; difficult to bring down with his hard-driving style . . . was "ACC Sophomore of the Week" after a brilliant show in the win over Wake Forest . . . is most noted for his adeptness in punt and kickoff returns . . . fine passer and receiver also . . . good handyman with abundance of desire and leadership . . . a fine all-around player . . . had a 4.8 rushing average as a soph and a three yard mark for 44 rushes last fall . . . threw two for no completions . . . caught the td pass from Kershner that won the Wake Forest game, 6-0 . . . had one punt return and four kickoff returns . . . big star at Midwood High . . . was all-New York City and all-Metropolitan . . . won New York State's coveted Lou Gehrig Award for excellence in athletics and academics as well as the Lenny Singer and B'nai Brith Awards, similar recognition . . . graduated this summer with honors and will enter the University's Law School this fall.

TED KERSHNER, 20, 6-0, 175, Junior from Martinsburg, W. Va.—as said last year, "if there ever was a boy who must be placed in the 'we told you so' category, it is this fleet and fabulous standout just a little over an hour's ride from the College Park campus and just across the border into W. Va., Ted (Teddy) Kershner" . . . now after this soph year is over and he is headed for the junior year, the same must be said . . . and to continue to add to the woes of the opponents is the fact that the often-injured Kershner of last year is well and now expected to do the things expected of him as a well player, as he was when the ballyhoo began after his great performances as a freshman and his first stab at spring practice . . . Teddy was in and out of the lineup in '56, another victim of the series of injuries that Mont suffered over . . . but in the games he didn't have to care for the taped legs and knees, he did a fine job . . . his bid for stardom was easily exhibited in the final game against State when he was well and had no tape to slow him down as he scooted for 129 yards in 13 carries, one for a 34-yard td run . . . this is the type game he is capable of playing, one that will give him the name his performances will command . . . he is the nearest 'fleet" type runner since Chet (the jet) Hanulak and Ron Waller, former Terp stars . . . once the jet-type runner is shot by the line of scrimmage, he is off with shot-like propulsion . . . he is the all-the-way type runner . . . did this consistently as a frosh . . . his longest td scampers were 97, 87, and 56 . . . is extremely dangerous with punt and kickoff returns . . . definitely must be tagged as one of the BEST who bears watching . . . good defense also . . . fine passer and receiver . . . tossed the winning pass to Healy in Wake Forest game . . .came up with a 5.7 rushing average with 273 yards in 48 carries . . . had the one completion for 6 throws . . . caught 4 passes for 47 yards . . . had one interception . . . led the team in punt returns with nine for 41 yards and kickoff returns with nine for 161 yards return . . . scored one . . . lettered in football and track four years in high school . . . was a hurdler and dash man, a good combination for an elusive, fast, hard-running back . . . second team all-State and first team all-Section his senior year . . . in School of Business and Public Administration.

BOB LAYMAN, 20, 5-11, 185, Junior from Pittsburgh, Pa.—here is one of the real good all-around football players for the Terps . . . there is little doubt that the brother of assistant coach Fred Layman is one of the finest offensive and defensive backs seen in College Park in recent years . . . he is tops as a keen competitor . . . as a freshman, he showed that he would be one to watch as he was one of the big guns for Dovell's undefeated yearlings . . . then last year he really came through when the chips were down because of the multiple injuries that hit the Terp backs . . . it was thought he would B team it last fall to give him experience and a year's growth, but it turned out he didn't need it . . . he came in and was a pleasant back to watch making his big-league debut . . . played well consistently as the second right halfback . . . is a hard-driving runner with a great deal of finesse . . . his running style makes him hard to bring down . . . excels defensively also . . . a real good tackler . . . had a 2.7 rushing average for 109 yards in 41 carries . . . completed one of two passes for 12 yards . . . had other intercepted . . . intercepted one himself . . . returned five points for 35 yards and one kickoff for 22 yards . . .. quite a fine punter . . . had a 35.6 average for 20 punts . . . should have a good season . . . will be hard to keep out of the picture in the interesting battle for the right halfback job . . . in School of Arts and Science majoring in Criminology.

RALPH HAWKINS, 22, 5-10, 185, Senior from Washington, D. C.—should be ready to have his best year for the Terps . . . played most defense as a soph but came up last fall with an excellent showing . . . finished with a 3.8 rushing mark for 31 carries for 117 yards . . . scored once . . . had one interception . . . had one punt return and three kickoff returns for 41 yards . . . one of team's best punters . . . was called on for four punts, averaging 26.5 . . . a fine runner . . . hits hard into the line, and in the open can be dangerous . . . another good two-way halfback who could be called on to do some quarterbacking . . . most adequate defensive back with good tackling ability . . . a highly regarded star at St. John's, lettering three years in football, basketball, and baseball . . . all-Metropolitan in football and basketball and all-Prep in baseball . . . in School of Physical Education.

JOE BEHRMANN, 20, 5-11, 180, Junior from Hackensack, N. J.—another of the fine surprises of '56 as he came in from the B list to give the Terp backfield a good mending following all the injuries. . . the affable hard-working serious halfback has tremendous desire and determination . . . never gives up and always working in practice . . . Mont believes he will be one of the big surprise boys this fall because of his known abilities as a good two-way player and his intense desire to play . . . Is a good runner and adequate defense . . . rushed four times for 14 yards . . . threw one but had it picked off . . . caught one pass . . . was all-Northern New Jersey; all-Bergen County and all-State in Jersey's Group 3 . . . has a brother a graduate of Wake Forest who played for the Deacons and now playing for McGill University in Montreal, Canada . . . in Arts and Sciences, a Pre-Dental student.

JIM JOYCE, 19, 5-10, 190, Sophomore from Philadelphia, Pa.—the "hottest" of them all as a halfback and fullback coming up from last year's freshman squad on which he was the big running star . . . is one of the finest backs to come to Maryland . . . is highly regarded and gives expectations and hopes of becoming another future all-America back to add to the long list of former all-time great backs . . . Mont, himself an admirer of great backs, says he can't miss and Joyce has so far done his part to uphold the prediction . . . the powerfully built all-everything from Bishop Neuman High in Philadelphia has reminded veteran observers of the great pile-driving bull-dozing type running backs . . . has most powerful legs, remindful of former fabulous Terp ball carriers as Ed "Mighty Mo" Modzelewski and Dick Bielski . . . he gave one of the most impressive displays of ball carrying ever exhibited for a rookie this spring and topped it off with getting all the headlines after the Varsity-Alumni game which ended spring practice . . . tremendous offensive ability which is equaled or even excelled by his keen defensive work . . . will be counted on to be one of the big guns for Mont and make a pleasant battle for the halfback positions . . . a future star.

OTHER OUTSTANDING HALFBACK CANDIDATES will be GENE VERARDI, 19, 5-10, 180, Sophomore from Freeport, Pa.;—BILL SLADE, 19, 5-10, 185, Sophomore from Sandy Spring, Md.;—and JOHN STITT, 19, 5-10, 180, Sophomore from Ben Avon, Pa. all three up from last year's freshman team and any of them could step into the varsity picture. Verardi, an excellent all-around player who can go at quarterback or halfback . . . one of the fastest and shiftiest men on the team . . . goood runner and strong defensively . . . Slade and Stitt were big guns also for frosh and show much promise . . . Slade a real good ball carrier . . . they with Joyce and Forbes were the cream of the '56 freshman halfbacks.

FULLBACKS

JIM HATTER, 21, 5-10, 185, Junior from Rome, N. Y.—to Hatter belongs the distinction of the "little man" coming through like a "big man" and in big-league style . . . the powerful little guy answered the call last fall to take over the fullback spot, which he won from several veterans . . . with injuries repeatedly keeping big Tom Selep on the sidelines, the hard-working Hatter proved himself to be one of the greatest fullback finds as he turned in exceptionally creditable performances . . . some of his play was on the sensational side . . . he proved, like Hamilton as a soph, that guts and desire and determination to play were the requirements for a good football player, especially at a position that size was supposed ot be a handicap . . . Hatter had a great year as a soph playing the fullback spot and the job was won the hard way and it is his to keep . . . there will be a great deal of competition for the job from Perlo and Casparro, but Hatter's great play of '56 gives him the job and with his ability and attitude, it will be hard to take it from him . . . likes to bull his way over tacklers, which he can do . . . will help if at times he gives the tackler a good fake job and get away from him for he has top speed . . . has a strong pair of legs which gives him power charge . . . is also a master on defense . . . is the lean and mean type player who likes it rough and tough . . . wicked tackler . . . always hustling . . . a fine blocker also . . . is counted on to have a big year . . . he must have a good year to aid in Terp success . . . had a 3.4 rushing average for 43 carries . . . caught two passes . . . another young Terp who bears watching . . . in School of Business and Public Administration.

PHIL PERLO, 21, 5-11, 205, Junior from Washington, D. C.—after an outstanding year as a sophomore, the highly touted local star had to miss a complete year of school because of illness . . . returning last spring, he took up where he left off, and looked like the good fullback he was . . . he is sure to help the position and will be vieing to take the chores of starting away from Hatter . . . worked hard this summer to prepare himself for a big year . . . could do just that, and of course, it is hoped for . . . an exceptional runner with a lot of football ability in his system . . . as a soph, he tabbed himself as a great football player . . . his overall skills could be utilized this year . . . Mont and staff are glad to see him back . . . was another of the most highly skilled District stars . . . captained the football, basketball, and baseball teams at Roosevelt . . . was all-City and all-Metropolitan in all three sports . . . was selected on the all-America high school team of '53 . . . invited to play in the all-American high school game . . . won the highest honor in school, the Citizenship Award . . . Perlo could furnish the two-deep offensive punch from the fullback slot . . . a good defensive player . . . fine tackler . . . in School of Business and Public Administration . . . a Public Speaking major.

LARRY CASPARRO, 20, 6-0, 200, Sophomore from Bloomfield, N. J.—after being held out last year, the big strong hard running rookie has the standout possibility of really giving Hatter and Perlo fits for their job . . . is the real bruising type runner who also commands great respect for his ability to change directions . . . came up with one of the most promising jobs during spring practice . . . has unusual speed to accompany his powerful running . . . Mont really counting on him to come through and make a brilliant showing . . . has the potential and will get the opportunity . . . is needed . . . first team all-County and second team all-State . . . in School of Arts and Science.

JOHN FORBES, 19, 5-10, 185, Sophomore from Basking Ridge, N. J.—another of the better rookies coming up from the freshman team . . . has given indications of becoming a future star . . . can be used either at halfback or fullback . . . had a fine year as a freshman . . . injury kept him out of most of spring drills . . . got back late and did a real good job, good enough that the coaches have high hopes that he comes through this fall . . . is definitely one of the finest prospects and is sure to have Maryland football followers raving about him in the future . . . has tremendous desire and zeal to play . . . works hard every minute . . . is the type player who wants to be playing every minute of the game or scrimmage . . . was a fabulous star at Bernards High . . . many schools sought his services . . . invited to play in the all-American high school game . . . in School of Arts and Science . . . this is a boy to keep an eye on.

OTHER FULLBACK CANDIDATES: WARREN RAUHOFER, 19, 5-11, 185, Sophomore from Montclair, N. J., and JACK MILLER, 20, 5-11, 190, Sophomore from Baltimore, Md.—Rauhofer is a good prospect up from the freshman team who looked good in spring drills . . . Miller, a real top runner with fine speed up from the B team . . . should be able to move up to the varsity.

Bill Guckeyson for 51 yards in 10 punts against Syracuse in 1936. (Note: Brewer against Syracuse in 1920 and Guckeyson against Florida in 1936 both averaged better than 60 yards but official figures could not be obtained from these schools and papers didn't carry the punting statistics.)

LONGEST PUNT RETURN:
Dick Nolan—90 yards—against Clemson for TD in 1953.

MOST PUNT RETURNS FOR SEASON:
Bob Shemonski—28 for 505 yards in 1950 in 10 games.

LONGEST KICKOFF RETURNS:
90 yards and TD—Lewis Thomas against Washington College in 1927; Bill Guckeyson against Georgetown in 1935; Sam Behr against Virginia in 1945; Dick Nolan against Mississippi in 1952.

LONGEST FIELD GOAL:
Dick Bielski, 47 yards against Mississippi in 1953.

LONGEST PUNT RETURN AGAINST MARYLAND:
Frank Brady of Navy for 100 yards and touchdown in 1951.

LONGEST KICKOFF RETURN AGAINST MARYLAND:
Jim McPherson of North Carolina for 93 yards and TD in 1926.

LONGEST PUNT AGAINST MARYLAND:
Charlie Justice of North Carolina for 84 yards in 1948.

His many honors are too numerous to mention, but he received every award locally and nationally, that is given a lineman. After making all-America his junior year for his excellent defensive play, he proved that he wasn't just an ordinary platoon football player by making everybody's all-America team in 1951, his senior year, playing offense. Tatum himself credited the success of his offensive team, highest scoring team in the country that year, to his '51 Co-Captain, Ward. And when the defense got in trouble, Ward, the '51 "offensive specialist" was put into the game to help stop the opponents' attack.

Besides the unanimous all-America selections his senior year, Ward was named "Lineman of the Year" by the Washington Touchdown Club and the Philadelphia Sports' Writers Assn. He was runnerup to Stanford's Bill McColl for the same Associated Press award. He was named the outstanding player of the then Southern Conference. During the '51 season, he was the nation's "Lineman of the Week" after his outstanding game against Georgia, in which he played with a broken hand. He also played in the Chicago All-Star game.

The Wards have three children: two boys, Jim 7, and Bob, Jr., 5, and a daughter, Kathie, 6 years old.

The former Terp guard from Redbank, N. J. also handles the vast film library. "Whitey" is generally regarded as a hard working perfectionist, on and off the field.

He married the former Clair Benson. They have a five-month old daughter.

The Terps graduated ten lettermen. The big losses were end Jean Waters; tackles Mike Sandusky, Al Wharton, and Ed Heuring; guards Jack Davis and George Kolarac; and fullbacks Tom Selep and Jim Skarda.

Lettermen returning include five ends: seniors Ed Cooke, Norfolk, Va.; Bill Turner, Silver Spring, Md.; and juniors Al Beardsley, Pittsburgh; Ben Scotti, Long Beach, N.J.; and Bill Steppe, Cumberland. Five tackles returning include seniors Don Healy, Rome, N.Y.; Tom Stefl, Brownsville, Pa.; Bill Burgly, New Kensington, Pa.; and junior Fred Cole, Newark, N. J. Four guards return in seniors Paul Tonetti, Massepequa, N. Y.; Ronald Laneve, Pittsburgh, converted from center. Two centers return in all-Conference and all-America candidate Gene Alderton, Cumberland, and Wilbur Main, Frederick, Md. Alderton, also co-Captain with halfback Jack Healy, was all-Conference last year as a junior.

Seven halfbacks return in seniors Fred Hamilton, Freeport, Pa.; Dare, Baltimore; Healy, Brooklyn; and Ralph Hawkins, Washington, D.C.; and juniors Bob Layman, Brentwood, Pa.; Teddy Kershner, Martinsburg, W. Va.; and Joe Behrmann, Hackensack, N.J. Three quarterbacks return with senior Fritsch, Carnegie, Pa.; and juniors Lewis, Martinsburg, W Va.; and Rusevlyan, Washington. Jimmy Hatter, Rome, N.Y.; and a junior this fall, leads the fullback returnees with Perlo.

The overall outlook is that the Terps will be better in '57 There is better balance and much more depth, now with so much experience coming back from the '56 team. Up front, the line, led by Alderton, Cole, and Tonetti lends a fast and mobile unit. The offensive line blocking will be much improved and the personnel gives an outlook for fine defensive play. Cole, a 225-pounder, is a tremendous tackle prospect. His play in the Alumni game caused the many professional coaches in the press box to single him out as the top lineman with Alderton. He is certain to become another of the long list of great Maryland tackles.

Along with the better offensive-defensive prospects up front will be the better backfield situation. Fritsch, Lewis, and Rusevlyan offer high hopes for fine quarterbacking and with seven halfbacks returning, all with very valuable experience, and good fullback work from Hatter and Perlo, the Terps are expected to engineer much more offensive strength than last season and be a tight secondary. Hamilton, the 180-pound "work horse" again leads the returning backs. He is expected to get a lot of assistance from Dare, Layman, Jack Healy, and Ted Kershner, all top football players.

Outstanding newcomers include halfback Jim Joyce, Philadelphia, the star of the varsity in the spring game; fullbacks Larry Casparro, Bloomfield, N.J. and John Forbes, Basking Ridge, N.J.; guards Rodney Breedlove, Cumberland, and Tom Gunderman, Franklin, N. J.; tackles Charles Carroll, Philadelphia, and Tom Flor, Elizabeth, N. J.; and end Ronald Shaffer, Cumberland, Md.

Of this group, the top boys who should lend a great hand to the Varsity this fall are Breedlove, whom the coaches call another future all-America; Joyce, Carroll, and Casparro. The latter pair are from the B squad of last year. Breedlove played end on last year's freshman team and was an outstanding receiver of quarterback Dick Scarbath's passing and was a demon on defense. Scarbath failed out of school at mid-term, a big blow to the Terps. Because of his size, 6-2 and 215, Mont moved Breedlove to guard this spring to take advantage of his speed and great linebacking. He made the move look good as he soon had moved up to the second team. Joyce was the big answer to a good all-around back coming up from the yearlings. He is strong and powerful and hard to tackle. He can be used at halfback or fullback.

ROY LESTER

whose assistant was Jim Tatum. In January 1945 he was sent to Bainbridge, Md. to Physical Instructors School and upon completion of that training was sent to Hawaii as an instructor for a year.

Following his discharge in '46, he returned to West Virginia to complete work for his degree. Again he played all three varsity sports and finished with nine varsity letters. He was an end on the Mountaineers' Sun Bowl team of '49. He got his B.A. in Political Science in the spring of 1949.

After a year with the Eagles, he returned to W. Va. to begin work on his Masters Degree. He then took the job of coaching football, basketball, and baseball at Walton, W. Va. High where he stayed two years. Then he transferred to Cumberland and Allegany High.

He married the former Sylvia Watson June 29.

ED FULLERTON

junior year at halfback. It was his third year and the Sugar Bowl game that brought Fullerton his and Maryland's greatest football hour. He heroically disproved the general feeling that the 60-minute man in football was a thing of the past while the two-platoon was still the trend. Because of a late injury to offensive fullback Ralph Felton, he was moved over to take care of those offensive chores and still played his defensive halfback spot. All he did was score two touchdowns, pass for a third and recover a fumble that led to the Terps' fourth score in leading the Red and White to a 28-13 win over Tennessee. He was named to the United Press all-Bowl team. Following his senior year he was selected to the first all-Conference eleven. He was Co-Captain of the 1952 team.

Following graduation in 1953 from the School of Business and Public Administration with a Personnel Major, he played with the Pittsburgh Steelers that fall. An injury kept him out most of the season.

In January, 1954 he went into the Air Force as a 2nd Lt., and after training schools was assigned to Bolling Air Force Base as Ass't. Electronics Officer.

At Bolling he was player-coach, and his second year found him just coaching and the team won the all-Service title. Following his discharge in January of 1956, he accepted Coach Mont's call to return to Maryland.

Ed married the former Joan Walton, high school sweetheart. They have two sons Ed, jr., 3 and Michael 1.

backfields that set so many national marks and set many University marks with their fabulous ground gaining achievements and scoring jaunts.

When Hennemier's services became available, Mont lost little time in luring him away from scores of other schools who were bidding for him. The former Duke graduate had made his mark here at Maryland, and so returned.

Hennemier even today is a big name in the annals of Duke football history. Weighing only 150 pounds while playing center, he made fame for himself in '33, '34, and '35 as the star Blue Devil center. He undoubtedly was and still is, one of the smallest players ever to play the pivot position. Because of his outstanding football ability, for such a "little guy," he was nicknamed "Scrappy Jack," and still carries the name on and off the field.

A 60-minute man, he won the most valuable player award as voted by his teammates in '35. The same year he made all-America Mention and the all-Conference team.

In 1939, he went to Washington and Lee University as Line Coach. He stayed there through '41 before being called into the Navy in '42 at Pensacola Naval Air Station. He coached and played center on the Base team. After 3½ years of duty, he returned to Duke in '45 as assistant line coach and freshman coach.

He joined the Terp staff in 1949 and stayed until he went to Canada in the spring of 1955. Now he has come back to Maryland.

played in the 'Gator Bowl games of 1948 against Georgia and 1950 against Missouri. Idzik also lettered in baseball his last two years as shortstop and third baseman. He turned down pro baseball offers as well as pro football opportunities with the Philadelphia Eagles, who drafted him. Instead, following graduation in 1951 from the School of Physical Education, he stayed on at Maryland as assistant coach through most of the '51 season before he went into the Marine Corps.

Stationed at Parris Island, Idzik played halfback the season of '52 and for leading them to the All-Marine Championship, he was named to the All-Marine eleven. After his transfer to Quantico he was given S/Sgt. rating and assigned to Special Services. He played and coached the season of 1953.

After his discharge, he was named assistant coach at the University of Tennessee the season of 1954. In the spring of 1955 he accompanied one of the Vol coaches to Ottawa, Canada where he was backfield coach of the Roughriders.

Idzik married the former Joyce Hoppensteadt, Maryland coed and graduate, in January 1953.

With the outbreak of World War II after the Pearl Harbor incident Peebles left Vanderbilt in December 1941 during his senior year and enlisted in the Infantry. Following his commission from Officers' Candidate School he was assigned as an Infantry Officer to the 69th Division. He played service ball in 1942.

While overseas in combat duty, Peebles was wounded while leading his unit on a night patrol.

With the war ended, Peebles was assigned to the 29th Division and was a player-coach for their team which played against Mont's squad; thus, their first meeting. Later he was a member of the All-Star team coached by Mont.

Following his discharge in April '45 as a Captain, he returned to Vanderbilt to complete work for his degree. It was that fall that he signed to play with the Redskins and he played end for the DC team that season as well as '47 through '49 and again in 1951. He received his B.A. Degree in 1948. After the '49 season with the 'Skins, he went to Riverside Military Academy, Georgia, as football coach and stayed until June '51. After the fall season with 'Skins, he went to Gallatin, Tenn. High as coach. He stayed on for 2½ years before going to Sewanee, the University of the South, as assistant coach until the call to Maryland from Mont.

He married the former Nelle Gilchrist, Courtland, Ala., an Auburn graduate, in 1947. They have a daughter, Betty Bringle 8, and a son, Jim, Jr., 5.

backfield as he will do this fall. Besides his coaching duties, he is working secretary for the Terrapin Club and Concessions Manager.

Layman, native of Brentwood, Pa., was a three year letterman in football, basketball, and tennis at Brentwood High School. Following graduation, he spent a semester at Kiski Prep before enrolling at Colgate in February '51. He transferred to Maryland in the fall of '51. A quarterback in high school, prep school and Colgate, Tatum moved him to halfback where he made a big impression. It is believed he would have been one of the Terps' best.

He married the former Jane Murray of Brentwood. They have a daughter, Lee Ann.

year. Then in '47 he came to Maryland and has been head trainer ever since.

A Navy veteran, Wyre served as a physical education instructor in the V-12 program.

He was the first president of the Southern Conference Trainer's Assn. He previously has been on the board of the National Trainer's Assn., and now his most recent appointment, Chairman of the Board. In '49, he was named the top trainer in the East.
